

Sally Berglin, MPA, RN

Healthcare Leadership Consultant

Sally Berglin has been involved in health care leadership for the last 35 years with roles as a Critical Access Hospital CEO, overseeing rural health clinics, long-term care and emergency medical services at Bronson Healthcare. She has been faculty nationwide in quality improvement, accreditation corrective action planning, and emergency preparedness.

Sally has taught healthcare workers tactics in prevention and response to workplace violence, including facility planning to mitigate risks.

In Sally's previous positions, she has been responsible for all aspects of emergency preparedness in the settings of acute care hospital, skilled nursing facility, physician practices, and emergency medical services. She has extensive training in emergency preparedness and chaired the Kalamazoo County disaster committee for five years. She is currently working as CEO at Senior Care Partners P.A.C.E., and all-inclusive program for care of the elderly. This role is responsible of the safety of participants and staff in four locations in four counties.

Sally enjoys working with all aspects of healthcare delivery where emergency planning and safety are of paramount importance. She has taught many courses on active shooter training and de-escalation techniques. With her decades as an emergency nurse, she has always been driven to improve the safety and security of the work environment.

Sally's education includes a Master's in Public Administration, Bachelor's in Business Administration, and an Associate degree in Nursing, as well as multiple certifications in incident command training.
